Invents a Printing Wireless Telegraph.

Elmer A. Burlingame, a young electrician and inventor, of Laporte, Ind., says he has perfected an apparatus that will revolutionize present methods of telegraph communication and news dis-

The invention is a printing wireless telegraph. The operator who sends messages writes or prints them on an ordinary typewriter. This prints in the usual way, but, in addition, flarhes a message through space to a receiving station, where the copy is reprinted on a similar machine, exactly like the first.

The receiving station must be attuned to the incoming Hartzean waves, this giving secrecy and making it possible to have several sets of instruments working at once without interference. This noninterference is said to be so complete that a'l sending instruments may be connected to the same sending wire and all receiving instruments to another wire.

Inventor Burlingame says messages may be sent by his printing system about five times as fast as with the Morse code, and the necessity of waiting for an idle line is done away with. It is said that by connecting linotype in offices within a radius of 500 miles it will be ssible to operate them simultaneously from one sending station. The cost of quipping the receiving station will be about $1,000, while the cost of the sending station will be about $2,000. Laporte capitalists, it is declared, are preparing to build a factory to manufacture the apparatus.

After 15 years of more or less serious consideration of the subject, the Senate yesterday passed a pure food bill by the decisive vote of 63 to 4. From New York, Doctor Alderman went to Chicago to make as address at the annual bacquet of the Commercial Club of that city. He also at-tended a breakfast to which were invited to meet him ten presidents of Western Universities.

This year there has been a revival of the former University custom of having neasure prepared by Senator Machen, of inaugural addresses from the new pro-Alexandria, providing for the daily publication of an official periodical to be known as "The Legislative Record."

After describing the causes of the .nistaken impression that philosophy bears no relation whatsoever to life, the speaker maintained that philosophy arises learns how to think for himself and how develop his own self-conscious personality.

Dr. Herbert L. Willet, of the University of Chicago, has lately spent ten days at the University of Virginia, conducting Sanday services in the chapel, giving lectures almost every night in Madison Hall and holding afternoon conferences with students on r ligious subjects. The students were very much interested in Dr. Willett's discussions and received considerable benefit therefrom.
